

Our Contributors

Col Jeffery R. Barnett (BA, College of the Holy Cross; MS, Troy State University) is a military assistant to the assistant secretary of defense for strategy and threat reduction. He is a master navigator with twenty-eight hundred flying hours in the C-130 and C-9, including 40 combat and combat-support missions in Southeast Asia. Prior to his present assignment, he was the chief of staff and American contingent commander for the United Nations peacekeeping operation in Vukovar, Croatia. Colonel Barnett's staff assignments include military assistant to the director, net assessment, Office of the Secretary of Defense; Headquarters USAF; and Headquarters Pacific Air Forces. During the 1991 Gulf War, he was attached to the Checkmate planning cell. He has published in Marine Corps Gazette, Parameters, Airpower Journal, and US Naval Institute Proceedings, and is the author of Future War (Air University Press, 1996). Colonel Barnett is a distinguished graduate of both Squadron Officer School and the joint Army/Air Force Air/Ground Operations School, and a graduate of Air Command and Staff College and Air War College.

Dr. John Hillen (AB, Duke University; MA, King's College, London; DPhil, Oxford University) is the Olin Fellow for National Security Studies at the Council on Foreign Relations. He is a former Army officer who served with the 2d Armored Cavalry Regiment in the Persian Gulf War. A contributing editor at National Review magazine, Dr. Hillen is the author of Blue Helmets: The Strategy of UN Military Operations and numerous articles in Foreign Affairs, Orbis, Strategic Review, Joint Force Quarterly, Parameters, and many other periodicals.

Deborah L. Westphal (BS, University of New Mexico) is chief, Long Range Space Systems Planning, Space and Missile Systems Center, Los Angeles AFB, California. She previously served as a program manager, as a technology investment strategist, and as a flight-test coordinator. She is a member of the board of directors for the National Defense Industrial Association, Greater Los Angeles Chapter.

Lt Col Larry K. Grundhauser (BS, Rochester Institute of Technology; MS, University of Southern California) is commander, 13th Intelligence Squadron (ACC), Beale AFB, California. He previously served as National Defense Fellow with the Merishon Center at Ohio State University. Colonel Grundhauser has a wide range of experience in intelligence, international politico-military affairs, and space and missile systems. He led the Assistant Chief of Staff (Intelligence) task force to combine intelligence with air and space operations at Headquarters USAF. Other assignments include senior arms control policy advisor to the director of the US Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) on matters of verification and compliance. He was presented the ACDA's Meritorious Honor Award for his support of the high-level strategic arms negotiations between the United States and the Russian Federation. Colonel Grundhauser is a distinguished graduate of Squadron Officer School. He also is a graduate of Air Command and Staff College and the Armed Forces Staff College.

Richard Szafranski (BA, Florida State University; MA, Central Michigan University) is a partner in Toffler Associates. His assignments while on active duty included staff positions in the headquarters of Strategic Air Command, North American Aerospace Defense Command, and Air Force Space Command. He commanded B-52 units at the squadron and wing levels and was also the base commander of Peterson AFB, Colorado. Before his retirement from active duty as a colonel in 1996, he was the first holder of the Chair for National Military Strategy at the Air War College, Maxwell AFB, Alabama. Colonel Szafranski is the author of many writings on military strategy and operational art that have appeared in Airpower Journal, Parameters, US Naval Institute Proceedings, Joint Force Quarterly, Military Review, Naval War College Review, and Strategic Review. He is a graduate of Air Command and Staff College and Air War College.

Lt Col Bruce M. DeBlois (BS, MS, Union College; PhD, Oxford University) is the division chief of Strategic Studies and Assessments at the National Reconnaissance Office, Chantilly, Virginia. Previously, he served on the faculties of the School of Advanced Airpower Studies at Maxwell AFB, Alabama, and of the Department of Mathematics at the United States Air Force Academy. He authored an award-winning research project at Air Command and Staff College in 1994 and is the editor of and a contributor to Beyond the Paths of Heaven (forthcoming, Air University Press). Lieutenant Colonel DeBlois is a distinguished graduate of both Squadron Officer School and Air Command and Staff College.

Dr. Gregory S. Parnell (BS, State University of New York at Buffalo; ME, University of Florida; MS, University of Southern California; PhD, Stanford University) is a strategic advisor at Toffler Associates and associate professor at Virginia Commonwealth University. He previously served as head of the Operational Sciences Department at the Air Force Institute of Technology; as chief of the Resources Analysis Division and also chief of the Force Analysis Division at the Air Force Center for Studies and Analyses; and as senior fellow, National Defense University. Dr. Parnell is a graduate of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces and Air Command and Staff College, and he has published a number of articles in periodicals such as Operations Research, Management Science, Interfaces, Military Operations Research, and Asia-Pacific Journal of Operational Research.

